The Best Decision Ever: Thriving in Business with a Humanities PhD

Kathryn Hume
Entrepreneur, Blogger, and Educator specializing in Artificial Intelligence

Hume will share how she went from a degree in Comparative Literature to becoming a technology executive, underscoring how the contemporary workplace provides opportunities to teach, learn, and even impact the future of education.

Thursday, November 9th
12:00-1:00 PM
Pigott Hall, Room 252

The Curse of Illegibility

Adam Morris
Author, Essayist, Editor, and Translator

A graduate of Spanish and Portuguese, Morris will discuss his current work as a literary translator and author, including the benefits and hidden pitfalls of approaching the literary industry with a humanities PhD.

Wednesday, November 15th
12:00-1:00 PM
Pigott Hall, Room 252

Sponsored by the DLCL Humanities Education Focal Group